The demon can then use them as a passage in their own body, making them do horrible things (murder, rape, acts of terror, etc). This has happened a number of times in history since the invasion. Demons can only be excersized by certain techniques.

Can "the demon made me do it" be a viable excuse in court ...

Answer: The first instance of "the devil made me do it" used as an excuse was in the Garden of Eden. Eve says, "The serpent deceived me, and I ate" (). Her excuse did not get her off the hook (verse 16), and it won't help us much, either. Yes, the devil and his demons tempt us to sin (; ;).

Why is "the devil made me do it" not a valid excuse?

A demon (from Koine Greek δαιμόνιον daimónion) is a supernatural and often malevolent being prevalent in religion, occultism, literature, fiction, mythology and folklore. The original Greek word daimon does not carry such negative connotations.
